PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Research leader with over a decade of experience directing research and translating empirical findings into policy and industry impact. Active participant in policy forums, regulatory comment submissions, and regular contributor to leading media outlets. Skilled in designing rigorous studies, establishing ethical frameworks, and convening interdisciplinary stakeholders across civil society, academia, government, and industry to advance evidence-based policymaking on AI systems, platform safety, and child safety online.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Senior Research Fellow / 2021 – current / Center for Democracy & Technology

- Directed research programs on emerging technologies at the intersection of media, technology, and democracy, with particular focus on AI systems, platform accountability, and child safety online.
- Built and led interdisciplinary research teams (10+ researchers and coders) designing and executing large-scale qualitative and mixed-methods studies; managed research operations, rigor, and timelines across multiple concurrent projects.
- Established research ethics protocols and data management frameworks for sensitive datasets and human subjects research, including work involving minors; ensured compliance with institutional review standards.
- Translated empirical research into policy and public impact output through the submission of regulatory comments, op-eds in major outlets (CNN, Wired, Tech Policy Press), and strategic partnerships with civil society, academic institutions, and industry.
- Supervised and mentored research interns, externs, and junior researchers, providing methodological, ethical, and professional development guidance.

Principal Researcher / 2016 – 2021 / Human-Computer Interaction / CMU

- Managed large interdisciplinary research teams focused on social agents and conversational AI, employing participatory design, interviews, surveys, ethnography, and mixed-methods approaches to understand human-technology interaction.
- Published 20+ peer-reviewed papers in top-tier venues (ACM CHI, DIS, HRI), including multiple best paper and honorable mention awards, establishing thought leadership in human-centered AI design.

- Designed and executed rigorous empirical studies investigating social and ethical dimensions of emerging technologies.

Design Research Internship / 2020 / Instagram
Investigated the role of ephemeral interaction in teen and young-adult social behavior; produced design recommendations for several product teams.

Design Research Internship / 2019 / iRobot
Led a mixed-methods research effort on expressive robotic motion; findings and design recommendations informed the design of a new home robot.

Researcher / 2014 – 2016 / IDC Media Innovation Lab (MiLAB), Reichman University
Led interaction design research for physical interfaces and social robots, including project management of interdisciplinary research and design teams.

Head of Product / 2014 – 2015 / Hippotec ltd.
Led strategy and team management for the product team in a full-cycle mobile app development firm; defining product vision, overseeing user experience research, and coordinating the team.

Project Manager / 2010 – 2012 / StyleRiver Fashion E-commerce
Managed cross-functional projects for a pioneering fashion e-commerce platform, overseeing product, operations, and special initiatives including press, marketing and advertising.

EDUCATION

Ph.D. in Human-Computer Interaction / 2016 – 2021 / CMU
Dissertation: Designing Interpersonal Intelligence and Ownership Models for Conversational Interfaces.
Advisors: Prof. Jodi Forlizzi & Prof. John Zimmerman

M.Sc in Human-Computer Interaction / 2016 – 2018 / CMU

B.A in Interactive Communication / 2012 – 2015 / IDC, Herzliya
